

Please join the North Carolina Human Trafficking Commission and North Carolina Coalition Against Human Trafficking for a new online training series:

Strengths and Vulnerabilities: Lived Experience of Risk and Resilience

American Indians' Vulnerability to Trafficking:

Part I- History, Heritage and Resiliency

Part II- Identifying and Providing Service

July 14, 2021

10:00-11:30 AM & 1:00-2:30 PM

This 2-part webinar will familiarize participants on the historical traumas behind American Indians' vulnerability to violence. Participants will learn about important historical events that have caused deep-rooted traumas, cultural traditions that aid in resiliency, and steps they might take to develop an effective and supportive response to trafficking. Our goal is that participants will be able to incorporate this knowledge into new service provision strategies that can build trust to develop lasting relationships with tribal communities over time.

Registration

Part I: History, Heritage and Resiliency at 10:00 AM: Zoom Registration

Part II: Identifying and Providing Service at 1:00 PM: Zoom Registration

About the presenter: Nikki Locklear has worked 12+ years in DV Advocacy with over 10 years in direct services as an advocate and as a Shelter Manager at a DV/SAVHT Agency. In these positions, she has had the opportunity to work with state and federally-funded grants geared toward providing culturally-congruent services to American Indians. She is currently the Director of the Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault/Human Trafficking Program for the NC Commission of Indian Affairs within the NC Department of Administration. Throughout her career, she has worked on many projects within North Carolina to assist and inform victims of violence in tribal communities.

This project was supported by Grant No. 2018-V2-GX-0061 awarded by the Office for Victims of Crime, U.S. Department of Justice. The opinions, findings, conclusions, and recommendations expressed in this publication, program/exhibition are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Department of Justice, Office for Victims of Crime.